Emotional and behavioral health are just as essential to our overall well being as physical health. In fact, problems with one's emotional and behavioral health can have an impact on one's whole body and the entire family.

These issues can be further complicated when dealing with a child. Knowing how to help a child or teenager with serious problems often requires specialized training. The good news is that parents do not need to handle these problems alone.

At Strongsville Family Counseling we are trained to handle these problems. We know how to help each family member at his/her own developmental stage. We understand the complexities of childhood, as well as how stress affects adult functioning. We believe that each person has the capacity to learn how to cope with hardships and to find peace in their everyday life.

These are some of the services we offer:

- Counseling for Children
- Counseling for Adults
- Counseling for Families
- Psychological testing and evaluations

Some of the problems we are skilled to treat include:

- ADHD
- Anger Management
- Anxiety
- Behavior Problems
- Death
- Depression
- Divorce
- Family Conflicts
- Self-Harm
- Sexual Abuse
- Stress Management
- Suicidal Thoughts/Attempts
- Trauma
